

“Empowering those with a cognitive disability through socialization and resources”

Harger Club House gives people living with a cognitive disability the chance to regain employment, companionship, ties to their community and self-respect. It is both a program and a place where people can go to find socialization, support, and a sense of purpose.

We are committed to helping people achieve their personal goals and contribute to the communities they live in. Through meaningful relationships and work, mental illness need not be an obstacle to fulfilling one's dreams.

It is essential for everyone to feel that they are wanted. Harger House provides the place where those with a cognitive disability can socialize and feel chosen.
